BELLYDANCERS

When it comes to art, most people say they only know what they like.

There's one "art" that has supporters who guarantee it will be liked by just about anyone who enjoys wriggling and jiggling.

"Belly dancing is a dance but also an art of the Middle East," instructor Shareen Lair said. Lair teaches a class for the Upland Recreation Department that is flattening the stomachs of Upland residents in a way no other exercise, art or dance could possibly match.

The instructor said the skill is not an easy one to acquire. "To be a good belly dancer you have to learn to like yourself, learn to control parts of your body and learn to enjoy it."

Lair said other dances may require a certain amount of skill, but it's the sensuality of belly dancing that makes a good self image essential.

"If you don't like yourself, if you can't find contentment with yourself, you can't project it," she said.

Getting comfortable with yourself is a part of learning belly dancing, Lair found when she first decided to give the activity a try.

"I found I had some abilities and I enjoyed it. I had something to offer, could entertain; I got a feeling of achievement.

"Luckily, I have a husband that lets me grow in those ways. He is my biggest fan," she said.

Learning belly dancing requires the student first have desire, time and discip-

"Some of my students join the class for exercise, some because it sounds risque," Lair said.

The first step to becoming the complete bellydancer is excercise. "I teach them to move parts of their bodies independently of the others, you have to learn to control parts of the body," she said.

Lair uses some yoga exercises. She then teaches her students steps and movements. "They learn to use finger cymbols, veils and learn different parts of the dance, and if they care to, they can get to the point of performing."

According to Lair, there are no local clubs which promote Middle Eastern dancing, but Cancuns, a Mexican restaurant in Duarte, has live Middle Eastern music and open dancing on Tuesday nights.

The pastime can also be lucrative if a dancer is good enough to perform in public, according to Lair.

"In the Middle East, it is customary to reward the dancer, and tipping is usually the way it's done. She can go into the audience and people can put money in the dancer's belt, not just men, women also enjoy the dancing," she said.

Because they feel uncomfortable performing in public, beginners usually dance only for their own pleasure, she said.

But Lair said one of the greatest pleasures of belly dancing is to dance, accompanied by live musicians, in front of crowds.

"If you're dancing to a record, whether it's disco or jazz, whatever, it's different than dancing with musicians. If you have a record, you're more in control."

Middle Eastern musicians force the dancers to improvise a lot.

She said most dancers like dancing to musicians so much they don't want to dance to records.

Middle Eastern dancing has a set routine, according to Lair. "It begins with opening, welcome music and then the mood changes and the dancer goes into veil work. There is a fast interum and then it's slow again with very controlled hands, rib cage and sensuous, expressive movement. The music changes again to a drum solo and the dancer does hip shimmies, and then the finale."

"Belly dancing is not risque, it is a very beautiful dance form," she said.

Costumes for the dancers are up to each individual's taste; there are no set patterns or requirements. "The mid-section doesn't have to be totally exposed. Some ethnic folk dancers are completely covered up with Vnecks and long sleeves and jeweled harem pants," Lair said.

She teaches students about costumes. "Some dancers prefer bangles, others dress in earth tone scarves, sashes and headdresses. On the East coast, dancers use more beads and brocades. Out West, you find more coins (as ornaments) and chiffons. A skimpy costume is the decision of the dancer and her interpetation. Some dancers don't show any leg."

Costumes can be expensive. To offset costs, special events are held. "A Day in the Harem," will be held Saturday, Nov. 12, from 1 to 4 p.m. Participants can buy or swap costumes and Middle Eastern musicans will entertain. Dancers will be on hand to perform.

A Christmas boutique will be held in conjunction with the Middle Eastern festivities.

Who takes belly dancing classes? "I've had students of every kind, every age. I've taught an engineer, nurses, teachers, secretaries and housewives," Lair said.

She said her most enthusiastic students are housewives.

"I've had students all sizes. If you were to see a dancer in the Middle East she would be voluptuous, with a little more fat on her body, to show she is more affluent."

Many women lose both weight and inches in Lair's class. "Lots of times what happens is they firm up the body and look a lot better," she said.

Judy Fuarez of Upland said she has lost more than 40 pounds in the last six to seven months. "It really helped me. I lost weight, gained grace, feel freer and feel more relaxed in front of people," she said.

Fuarez has danced at parties and at the Cancun. "You make money on tips at the restaurant and that's nice. It's nice if you can get paid for something you do well and really enjoy."

Fuarez joined the class after her doctor recommended an exercise program. "A lot of other women may think belly dancing is tiring. I had gotten a heart problem and have severe asthma. I couldn't walk around the block without huffing and puffing," she said.

Belly Dancers (opposite page) pose for a group picture from a fellow dancer. Suny O'Hare (above) practices her finger cymbols. On the cover: O'Hare works on a veil routine.

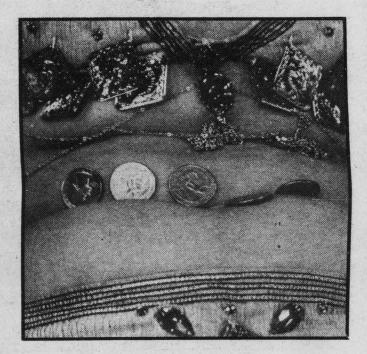

"You can lead yourself slowly into dancing. At first you loosen up and Shareen teaches you to use parts of your body. It's easy and not too strenuous. You learn to move with fluidity, flowing easily from one move to another," Fuarez said.

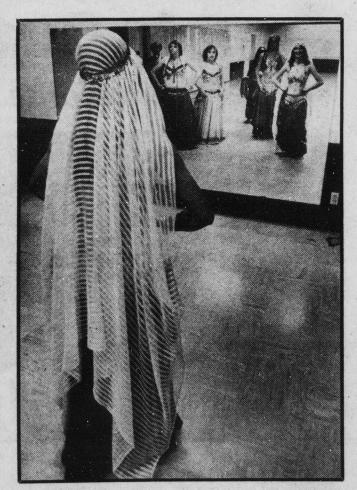

Fuarez said her husband was hesitant about her taking belly dancing at first. "Now he is very excited about it and has gotten used to the music. He appreciates it as an art form. He will draw or help me design my costumes," she said.

"I like watching her dance," David Lance said about his wife, Diane. He said she felt better about herself, was in better physical shape and was healthier after taking up the hobby.

"Dancing doesn't make her a whole lot of money and it's an expensive hobby with her costumes," he said.

Diane said she has gone from a size 14 to a size 9 since she started belly dancing. "It's been good for my body. I tried aerobics but it was too hard on my knees. I feel through Shareen's class I have gained selfconfidence and poise. I'm more comfortable being around people."

Flipping quarters (top) in the fold of the stomach is a sign of a experinced belly dancer. Belly dancers (above) admire their costumes in the mirror.

Grown-up job suits policeman fine

By Ian Fallis

Jim Etchason, like many fifthgraders, dreamed of being a policeman when he grew up. Unlike most of the others, he made his dream

Etchason, 23, is a three-year veteran of the Upland police department. He said his initial interest, starting in the fifth grade, was "television interest."

"I think everyone's first impression of police officers is from television," he said, "racing here and there with the siren on, chasing crooks."

"In real life, when you do things, the all-so-time-consuming paperwork follows," he said. The realities of police work could turn people off, but "seeing what the job was like enriched my desire to be a police officer," Etchason said.

And the paperwork has a purpose. "Our actions have to be recorded in great detail so a successful prosecution can occur," he said. "If anything, my spelling sure has improved," he said.

Etchason has faith in the criminal justice system. All it needs are "some changes to make it more efficient," he said.

"I've had first-hand experience on how the system can work for you and how it can work against you, but I'm still a believer in it, and I think I always will be." he said.

He is also "a strong believer in the death penalty," he said, in cases like the Chino Hills massacre of four people. "Something like that is inexcusable," he said. "If they need somebody to pull the switch, I'll do

The courts' limitations on police work "get frustrating. But it's also a challenge," working within the rules.

Some limitations lead to hard feelings, he said. "People want you to do this and do that," he said, and are upset when he can't. "We have rules and guidelines. If we violate them, the whole thing gets kicked loose," he said.

Etchason has the dubious distinction of being the only Upland officer ever shot in the line of duty.

"A lot of people have come up and told me I didn't do anything wrong. You can take precautions and do certain things, but there's always ... some chance something like this is going to happen.

"The outcome is, I'm still here, so everything worked out," he said.

About 11 p.m. on March 13, Etchason was alone, patroling his beat in southeast Upland. As he went through a carport off the 900 block of Richland Street, he saw a man with his hands hidden in a trenchcoat.

Etchason got out of his car and told the man to stop. The man instead started away. Etchason put his hand on his revolver. "I experienced tunnelvision. Also, it was raining and I couldn't hear well," he said.

Suddenly, he was jumped from behind. The blow sent him to the pavement and knocked his gun loose. He shook his attacker off and saw the first man coming at him with his gun.

Etchason lunged at him. He fired, point blank, into Etchason's stomach. The pair fled, leaving the gun behind and possibly thinking Etchason was dead.

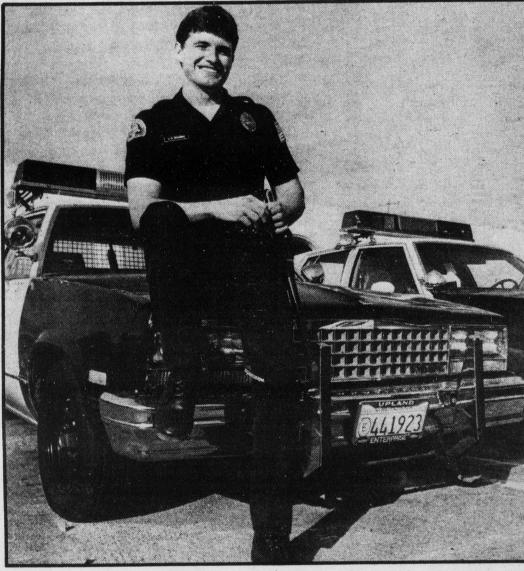

But a bullet-proof vest he bought himself deflected the bullet. He was only knocked out by the impact. He came to about 10 minutes later, alone in a dark alley.

"I was in shock and scared, but as soon as (Upland police and firemen) got to me, I started to feel good," he said. Upland and Ontario police officers cordoned off the area, but the men were not found.

Etchason spent two days at San Antonio Community Hospital, mainly for observation. He had a six-inch, swollen abrasion on his abdomen.

While in the hospital, "people I didn't even know" showered Etchason with cards, letters and telephone calls. It reassured his faith that "there are fine and good people out there."

What is your favorite winter sport?

Pete Peters, Upland: I don't have a favorite winter sport but I love to watch skiing competition, skiing racing, slaloms. I enjoy watching skiing because I have been a skier and feel it is a very competitive sport. Not only do you use your body but you use your mind as well.

Sue Merawa, Upland: My favorite winter sport is basketball because I like to play it and it's fun even watching it on television.

Mary Merawa, Upland:Football is my favorite winter sport because my brothers play and I like to watch them.

Cherina Jaeger, Upland: My favorite winter sport is snow skiing because I've done it before and enjoyed it. But since having kids I haven't had much time.

New building adds new energy to congregation

By Terri Tirella

Cucamonga United Methodist Church has become a 'yes, we can' church since members raised a new building on the grounds of the landmark old stone church in Rancho Cucamonga, said the Rev. Glen D. Larson Jr.

The new building is a preschool and kindergarten facility, with classes and administrative offices.

"People aren't afraid of tackling projects and they are excited about the future: It's exciting to be a part of something like this," said Larson.

The old stone church, on Archibald Avenue, is a landmark in Rancho Cucamonga, and will celebrate it 100th birthday in 1984. Rather than raze it or remodel it, the congregation chose to mix old with new to handle community growth in Rancho Cucamonga.

The structure began "as an. (Continued on page 15)

Squeezing more out of a juicy history

By John Nicholson

Don't despair, folks, this column won't be covering citrus forever. Meanwhile, as you sip your morning orange juice, just think how smug you can feel, knowing where it came

When the earlier mentioned parent organization became Sunkist Growers Inc. in 1952, the products' plants becames its Orange Products and Lemon Products Divisions.

Recently, the processing of lemons has also been added to the Ontario plant's functions. Meanwhile, a new plant has been built in the San Joaquin Valley to do prilimary processing of the fruit in that area. It eliminates much of the cost of trucking whole fruit to Ontario.

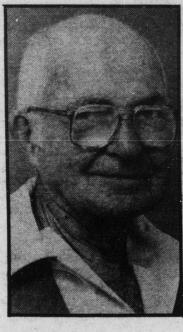

The Ontario plant has been of great economical value to the local area. While producing profits for the growers, the pay checks for its nearly 1,000 employees are quite important to local merchants and tax collectors.

I, personally, put in a bit over 30 years on salary there and my present wife is a veteran of over 28 years. As we now enjoy retirement, we will always have a deep respect for Sunkist and what it did for us.

In the early days of the organization, the merits of the cooperative principle became more apparent. Thoughts turned to improvements in the purchase of grove and packing house supplies. Larger purchases could justify lower costs.

In 1907, the organization formed an affiliate company, the Fruit Growers Supply Co. (FGS), to make those savings. At that time fruit was shipped in wooden crates. Picking asnd storage boxes wer also wood. FGS acquired vast timber acreages in Northern California and built lumber mills to supply the needed materials at lower cost.

FGS also arranged lower cost contracts for all sorts of grove and packing house supplies. Again, growers profits improved. In about 1950, fiberboard cartons began replacing wooden shipping crates and the lumber mill activity was reduced or shifted to other products. In the early 60s, FGS entered a joint venture with Crown Zellerback Corp. In a plant near El Monte, Crown produced the first fiberboard and FGS turned it into packing

Glancing Backward

John H. Nicholson

Rather recently, FGS opened it's own plant, just east of Ontario to do both parts of

It was mentioned earlier the first rail shipments of fruit were by ordinary boxcars and probably by slow freight. A lot of fruit perished before getting to market. Then, refrigerated cars were developed, with ice bunkers at each end, While the ice had to be replenished along the way, the cars were an improvement.

Many cars carried the initials, CFE, for California Fruit Express, and rated priority handling for agricultural products. Then came the mechanically refrigerated cars, with engine driven chilling units, rather like large airconditioning units.

Even those have given way, locally at least, to similarly refrigerated truck trailers, Many go east on rail flat cars, called "piggy back." Their smaller loads can better satisfy dispersed selling points.

Some 20 or 30 years ago, lemon growers were 'sitting on top of the world." Growing world populations wanted lemons. Few countries grew them, but we did. Process spiraled upward and growers grinned all the way to the bank.

New lemon groves were planted. Many orange growers cut back their trees and had them budded to lemons. Sour lemons became a "sweet crop."

Other countries jumped on the bandwagon and planted lemons. Now nearly 30 countries produce them, with labor costs a fraction of ours. The grinning has stopped. Some growers may even go to the bank with a hopeful look, hoping to float a loan.

Some readers may wonder why I have written so much about citrus. They go about there daily routines and never see a citrus tree. There is little other than homes, business and industry. Not too long ago, the reverse was true, with much citrus and little else.

One might believe that citrus in California is a dying industry. Probably we can blame that changed appearance on the climate. Folks came here and wanted to become a part of what they saw. They needed homes, jobs, and places to buy their needs. Ground spaces were needed and the groves provided it.

Many growers got the opportunity to sell their acreage at rather fantastic prices, That money could buy vastly larger acreage in outlying areas, such as Arizona, Coachella Valley and Central California and then plant it in citrus. Many did just that, and today, there is probably more citrus in the west than ever

So, don't worry; have no fear. Your breakfast juice will still be here.

John H. Nicholson is an Upland resident who here chronicles his family's history in the West Valley.

Of dead bodies and other good things

The play is so terrible he can't help giggling, and dead bodies are not supposed to giggle. No one, save the author, can figure why aristic director, Tony, chose this play. He must be losing his mind, and in the process endangering the well-being of the theater. At the same time, the theater building is being threatened with physical

"Love and Other Natural Disasters" by Allen Hanney. "Good natured, flop-eared Bubber Drumm is coming of age about as fast as a nineteen-yearold can in the town of Merry, Texas. In just one day he's wrestled a tiger, had 23 stitches in his leg, and fallen in love - not with his sometime-date Shirley, but with Shirley's red-haired, freckled-faced, divorced mother, Rose."

This good-natured sex comedy has an interesting portrayal of small town life. And wait until you see how Shirley gets even with Mom.

"The Peking Agent" by James D. Horan. This spy thriller is set in 1962. The balance of world power is about to shift dramatically, due to the split between Russia and China. Veteran New York newspaperman Tony Sebastian is tipped off that a famous Hollywood director is a spy for China. Then Sebastian's informant is brutally murdered, and he becomes the victim in a series of mysterious accidents which convince him someone wants to stop his investigation. Who is the Peking agent, and whose side is he really on are some of the questions Sebastian must answer.

"Maggie Craig" by Marie Joseph. This one's a romance set in the industrial northwest of England in the 1800s. Maggie Carig, beautiful daughter of a country schoolmaster, becomes pregnant by a man who cannot marry her, and she is forced to earn her living in the harsh environment of the cotton mills. The fanatical religion of the mill workers requires that she pay the rest of her life for her mistake.

'Maggie Craig" is the "...story of a woman of spirit fighting for her own identity and, ultimately, triumphing.'

"Silhouette in Scarlet" by Elizabeth Peters. "When she tore open the envelope two pieces of paper fluttered down onto the desk. The first was a one-way plane ticket to Stockholm. The other was a mysterious note, two works in an archaic language.

Vicky Bliss stared at them, listening to the sensible message from her brain: 'Throw them away. Don't go. It means nothing but trouble."

So, does she go? You bet! Three days later Dr. Victoria Bliss, respected art historian, left the National Museum in Munich for an adventure that would risk her life.

And who sent the ticket and the message? It was John Smythe. He's a thief, a cheat and a dangerous man to be around, but he makes the heart of statuesque, blond Vicky beat fast.

'Oral History" by Lee Smith. This is a tale of Hoot Owl Holler in the Appalachian Mountains, where Jennifer, descendent of the Younger clan. comes to do some taping fo an oral history project, and hears more than she wants to know.

The story is told from the point of view of various family members down through the generations. First there's Granny Younger. She tells of redheaded Emmy, who lays a curse on the holler that will affect its inhabitants for a hundred years. We hear from Pearl, the high school teacher who falls in love with one of her students. There's Al, ex-football star, who cashes in on the legend of the holler. And there's tough-as-nails Sally who tells the end of the tale in her own raucous way.

These entwining tales of haunting and murder tell of the people who live out in Hoot Owl Holler.

'The Vivian Inheritance" by Jean Stubbs. In June 1815 Hal Vivian, a young engineer, comes to Wyndendale to drain the mines of powerful William Howarth. The partnership between the two men will last for a stormy fifteen years and change the lives of family members. It will change Anna, Howarth's daughter, from a sheltered girl to a compassionate woman determined to marry Hal. It will cause spirited, red-haired Mary to seek a life away from the countryside.

The story is told against the changing backdrop of the Industrial Revolution. It is the third of a series about the Howarths. The others are "By Our Beginnings" and "An Imperfect Joy."

"Emerald" by Phyllis Whitney. When Carol Hamilton is forced to flee from her husband's savage threats to protect herself and her small son, she turns to great-aunt Monica Arlen as her only source of sanctuary. Monica, an old-time movie star, lives in Palm Springs. She has a secret, reaching back into Hollywood history, which is about to explode. With Carol as the frightened and unwilling catalyst, the situation becomes increasingly dangerous. And instead of sanctuary, Carol finds herself and her son fighting for their

GTE asks PUC for permission to charge for customer access

General Telephone of California today filed tariffs with the California Public Utilities Commission (PUC) to establish charges for customer access to the statewide telephone system. These tariffs would also apply to long distance companies such as AT&T, GTE Sprint and MCI for access to General's local lines and facilities.

The company is proposing monthly intrastate access charges of 89 cents for residential customers and $2.67 for business customers.

GTE is asking for an effective date of Jan. 1, 1984, despite the Federal Communications Commission's (FCC) recent order delaying implementation of similar charges for access to the nationwide telephone network to April 3, 1984.

The Jan. 1 effective date is necessary, GTE contends, because the way telephone companies share revenues obtained from long distance calling will be disrupted on that date because of the breakup of the Bell System.

In October, GTE Corp., Stamford, Conn., on behalf of its 18 telephone subsidiaries, filed with the FCC for interstate access charge tariffs of $2 for residential customers and $5.13 for business customers.

The new access charges would partially replace the current subsidies to local service provided by revenues from long distance service. These subsidies must be eliminated, GTE said, because competition, encouraged by the U.S. Congress and courts, has made it unrealistic for telephone companies to continue to charge long distance rates that do not reflect the true cost of service.

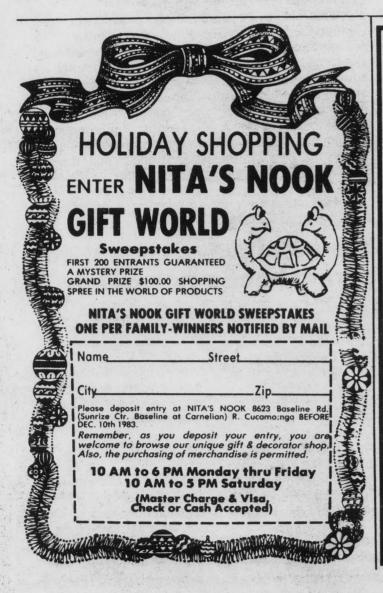

Uninsured drivers face license loss

The closest thing to a mandatory motor vehicle insurance law ever to hit California motorists takes effect on Jan. 1.

To have an accident while uninsured on or after that date means a mandatory one year suspension of the driving privlege that is followed by three more years of suspension or filing of proof of suspension.

The only exception is for "course of employment" which applies to those drivers who are employed for compensation.

The accident must be reportable — that is, it must involve property damage over $500 and/or bodily injury or death. The DMV report is required in addition to any other law enforcement reports.

Tourney to offer a banquet of martial arts

The West Coast Open Tae Kwon Do/Karate Championships will be hosted by America's leading martial arts instructor at Cal Poly Pomona's main gymnasium.

Dae Woong Chung, an eighth degree black belt instructor who operates from Pomona, will host the tournament on Sunday, Nov. 13. It is expected to draw participants from all over the world.

The international character of the tournament will offer the public an opportunity to view many aspects of martial arts.

Among the styles to be represented are Korean martial arts of Tae Kwon Do, Hwa Rang Do and Hap Ki Do; the Japanese martial arts of Shotokan and Judo; and the Chinese martial arts of Kung Fu and Kempo.

The championships, now in their 12th consecutive year, will feature Balck Belt fighting and forms as well as a special exhibition demonstration of board-breaking and self-defense skills performed by Chung's demonstration team.

The tournament contains a day-long program of activities, beginning at 10:30 a.m. with weigh-ins and sign-ups. Eliminations are from 11 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. and Black Belt finals from 5 to 9 p.m.

Highlighting the event will be a World Expo demonstration at 3:30 p.m., featuring flying/ breaking techniques, multiple assailant defense and other feats involving mind control and power

Chung has extended an open invitation to martial arts competitors of all styles and ranks for both forms and fighting. For information, contact Chung, 622-4358.

Upland teed off about new sport

Teeing off for a first this tempo in golf and the fall is the Upland Department of Recreation. Golf classes will be offered for the first time beginning Nov.

"We wanted to get classes started right away so we could avoid running into problems with Christmas," said Cyndi Testa, recreation supervisor.

Lessons, which are 45 minutes, will be held for ladies in the morning on Monday, Wednesday and Friday or in the afternoon on Tuesday and Thursday.

Men can sign up for lessons Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoon or Tuesday and Thursday morning.

A class for juniors, ages 13 to 17, is offered Saturday mornings.

Lessons will be given in groups, but class size will be limited. "It is not only difficult to teach larger groups, it's impractical from the standpoint of being able to give each student individual attention," said Wally Schultz, golf instructor.

Schultz said the Upland class cost is low in comparison with those at driving ranges or country clubs. "Lessons at à driving range or country club are usually priced at $25 for each half hour. I feel that a charge of $30 per person for the entire five weeks is fair and nominal," Schultz said.

Students will learn stance, the takeaway and back swing, downswing, the role of rhythm and history of golf.

"If each student is just physically coordinated without any special physical talents or prowess, he or she will be equipped (after the class) to play far better than average golf, and with practice and concentration can become a fine golfer without any further insruction," Schultz said.

First officer shot still loves job only in crises, he said. "I'm only there when something goes wrong. ... I see the bad side of people."

One card was a real morale-builder. It was from the student body at Upland High School, which Etchason attended.

The police department had never dealt with an officer who had been shot, and let Etchason decide when to come back to work.

"My biggest concern, was would I be able to come back to work and function without thinking, in every situation, I was going to get shot," he said.

After a couple of weeks he was no longer in pain and he went back to "light duty," he said. In another week, he was back on patrol, on graveyard shift in southeast Upland.

"When you fall off a horse, you've got to get right back on," he said.

Etchason frequently looks at the bright side. He said he hopes publicity about the shooting would help other officers be more aware. "Hopefully, they will learn through my incident."

Upland Police Department, by the way, now provides bullet-proof vests for all its officers.

Unfortunately for Etchason, it doesn't issue twist-proof wristbands. The first week he was back from the shooting, he slipped while getting out of his patrol car. "I fell in a drainage ditch and injured my hand," he said.

That, like the shooting, also happened on the 13th of the month. And a sniper took a couple of shots at him on Oct. 13, 1982, hitting the patrol car next to his head.

"If I work on the 13th, (the officers) are all curious to see if I make it through the day without hurting myself."

"I don't know if I'm having bad luck or good luck. I was shot at, but I didn't get hurt. I was shot, but they didn't kill me. You can look at it two different ways," he said.

Firefighters get serious about their driving

By Jim Marxen

Getting to an emergency is like driving in a race. Speed is essential, but the winner has to cross the Firefighters who make a living out of driving to emergencies know that all it takes is one unattentive motorist to finish the race sometimes with disastrous results.

To avoid the worst, firefighters in Rancho Cucamonga are learning to think differently when they board their trucks.

"You kind of get locked into thinking that that red light is your protection," said Foothill Fire District Battalion Chief Lloyd Almand. "But you've got to be prepared in case that driver doesn't give you the right of way."

The need for special instruction was illustrated recently when a fire truck struck a vehicle that Almand said had failed to yield the right of way.

While there were only minor injuries, Almand figured the best way to avoid another accident was to get firefighters trained in defensive driving.

"When an accident happens," he said, "they're usually pretty bad, because you've got a truck with two tons of water in it and that's a lot of forward motion."

Earlier this year, he launched a search for a training school capable of instructing fire truck drivers. Firms from as far away as Washington and San Diego were reviewed.

He settled on a local firm, Superior Training

"Usually they (Superior's instructors) teach truck driving," Almand said. "But it's the same rules of the road, except that we're en route to an emergency."

Following the classroom instruction. firefighters climb behind the wheel and are asked to demonstrate what they've learned.

Almand hopes to eventually train every firefighter in the district.

"We were training people the best we could." Almand said. "But they have never had anything like this before."

Aerojet honors two employees for innovation

Robert Quaintance of Rancho Cucamonga and Abe Shrekenhamer of San Dimas, employees at Aerojet ElectroSystems Co. in Azusa, have received the company's first annual awards for technical innovation.

Quaintance was one of two men who developed a design and practical processing techniques for an infrared detector. Shrekenhamer was acclaimed for his work in conceiving, designing and developing a highperformance, low-cost millimeter-wave antenna. The antenna is considered a vital element in the new generation of fire-andforget weapon systems being developed by Aerojet.

Upland art fair called a big success

By Terri Tirella

The first Upland Memorial Park Art Fair, a non-profit organization devoted to artists and craftsmen, was deemed a success by fair promoter Ed Jaunzemis.

"We didn't have as big a turnout of artists as we expected. Everybody (artists and craftsmen) had exceptionally good sales," he said.

He said a few of the artists backed out at the last minute but plan to be at the fair next Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. "They feel the pioneering day is over. We had 23 more bookings after some of the artists saw the

Surf's down but snow's up

"Snow Comes Up, Charlie Brown, Snow Comes Up!" will be the December musical presented by the Karousel Kids with Alisa Allen Atterbury directing and choreopraphing and Malcolm Atterbury producing.

Following their first writing venture last July of "Little Orphan Annie," Atterbury and Atterbury have written an original musical revue based on the famous Peanuts characters. The show will be performed at Mudd Theater in the Claremont School of Theology in December.

Fashion show set by school

St. Joseph's School in Upland will hold its sixth annual fashion show luncheon, "Changing Seasons," Nov. 12, at the Red Lion Inn, Ontario. Deborah Armbruster, owner of Deborah's, will provide some of the fashions to be featured.

The show is from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Tickets may be obtained through the school office 982-3258 or from chairman Ed Fuerte and chairwoman Rachael Fuerte, 981-7504.

caliber of people we have here," Jaunzemis said. "There were hundreds of people," he said. "We had a constant flow of people, 50 percent who were responding to advertising and about half who were out for a Sunday drive. They seemed to enjoy the show and spent about a half hour to 45 minutes looking at the displays." The Upland Memorial Park Art Fair was set up to promote local artists and craftsmen, according to Jaunzemis.

"They get tired of mall shows and other festivals. You're being used because they (the promoters) want you to set up but don't allow you to sell," he explained. The fair will be open every Sunday in. November and on Saturdays and Sundays in December.

Jaunzemis said he has experienced a lot of frustration in selling the idea of an art fair specifically for artists and craftsmen only. "I'm doing this (organizing a show) for the local artist and craftsman, but they don't know my inner feelings and are skeptical" about being a part of the show.

"I don't stand to make a nickel off it (promoting the show). All the money made (on set-up fees for booths) will be used to promote the artists, it's their money," Jaunzemis said.

Jaunzemis said he believes the art fair will be a success. "We're giving it our best shot and we'll see what happens."

Oil painting, acrylics, lithography, wood carving and sculptures, handmade toys, pottery, weaving, crocheted blankets, nylon dragontype kites and silk flowers are among some of the items for sale at the Upland Memorial Park Art Fair.

"We've geared the fair for artists to be able to do actual work or part of their work at the show. I'll be doing wood carving and wood sculpturing. It will create an interesting atmosphere," he said. He said plans for upcoming fairs includes having jazz, bluegrass, country rock, western bands featured some weekends. Other events will feature antique shows, chili cookoffs and hot-air balloons.

ENTERTAINMENT & DINING GUIDE

I certainly hope all of you out there are thoroughly enjoying the gorgeous weather we've been having lately. It's nice to be able to see the mountains once again and the sky is really truly blue.

Have you by chance visited China Alley? A great Chinese restaurant located next to the Sycamore Inn at 8270 Foothill in Rancho Cucamonga. They specialize in Mandarin, Szechwan and Hunan cuisine and are open 7 days a week to serve you. The special luncheons are served Monday through Friday from 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

It would be impossible for me to list all the great combinations you can enjoy for either lunch or dinner, the menu is very extensive and an experience in Chinese dining. The prices for the luncheons start at $3.95 and the combination dinners start at $6.95.

The Capri Restaurant at 1353 E. 4th Street in Ontario, in the Galvin shopping center has a great treat for you. Shane is performing in the lounge every Thursday from 8 to midnight, Friday and Saturday evening from 9 p.m. until 1:30 a.m. If you've ever heard Shane you know how great he is so for a fun evening why not visit the Capri for an great time.

Before retiring to the lounge for the great music you might plan on having dinner in the restaurant. How does a prime rib dinner for two sound to you? I'm sure you'll like the price $11.95 and you'll certainly love the food. Your dinner will include soup or salad, vegetable, potato or rice pilaf and hot roll with butter.

Capri Restaurant also has some great specials for breakfast, lunch or dinner.

Pollo Don Luis in the Music Plus Plaza at 9170 E. Foothill Blvd. in Rancho Cucamonga is offering you a Mexican style charbroiled chicken dinner for four for only $4.79 or you might choose the dinner for two for only $2.99.

The chicken is not your ordinary broiled chicken but flavorfully cooked in the authentic style of Mexico. The sweet tart taste of the marinade enhances the flavor of the chicken. Then it's charbroiled on an open grill to captivate the tantalizing flavor and aroma of food cooked over an open fire.

Founders Day Parade all ready to roll on Saturday

More than 150 entries are ready to roll down Base Line Road in Rancho Cucamonga's fifth annual Founders Day Parade.

The parade will take place Saturday at 10 p.m. between Carnelian Street and Archibald Avenue.

It will feature bands from throughout Southern California, community groups, floats and a beer wagon from Budweiser, to be supplied by the Foothill Beverage Co.

This year's honorary grand marshals will be the Miller's Outpost cowboys, Homer and J.R.

Also known as Bob Thompson and Fred Mulvey, the two television personalities will sign autographs between noon and 1 p.m. at the new Miller's Outpost store at Archibald Avenue and Foothill Boulevard.

They will sign autographs at Lions Park Community Center, 9161 Base Line Road from 1 to 2 p.m.

Grand marshal will be mayor Jon Mikels.

The following is a list of attractions as they are scheduled to appear in next Saturday's parade.

Story by Matt Coker Photos by Brant Clinard

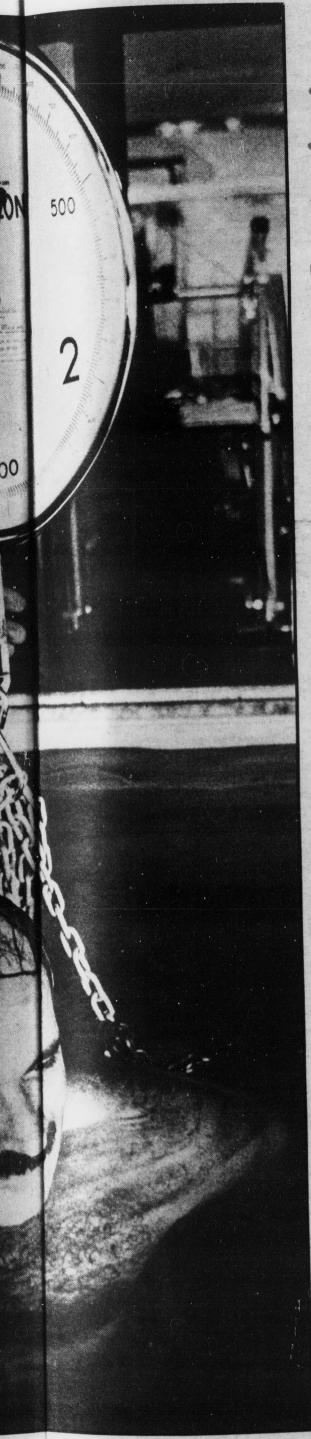

Captain Dave Fritchey (below) gets his waist measured as part of the new training firefighters will be going through. Fritchey (above right) goes through a three minute step up drill to determine his heart rate. Resperatory assesment (right) to see how much air the lungs can hold is part of the program. Fritchey (middle) is totally immersed in a water tank to determine body composition. Bob Antonacci (far right) checks Fritchey for hamstring flexibility.

FIREFIGHTERS shaping up to better fight fires

Don't be surprised to see tighter muscles on firefighters in the Foothill Fire District after they take part in a revolutionary fitness training program.

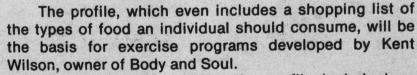

But those who tote ladders are not the only ones involved in the program. All 44 district employees — from the chiefs to the secretaries — will be exercising and dieting in an effort to reduce illness and injuries.

Body and Soul Fitness Center, 9790 19th St., Rancho Cucamonga, has been conducting initial tests all month in conjunction with Bob Antonacci's Fitness Appraisals of San Diego.

Fitness Appraisals has performed a similar function for the San Diego County Department of Education's 800 teachers, Antonacci said.

Antonacci said data is fed into a computer which prints out an individual's risk of getting heart disease, vitamin deficiencies and ideal weight as compared to the average firefighter.

The results of 26 different blood tests performed on fire district employees will also be used in the printout, called a "profile."

The tests which lead to the profile include long jumps, weight lifting, heart monitoring and blood pressure. The most unusual test involves submerging a person in a large tub of water. The results show body fat.

Wilson said the exercise program he has developed using the results is designed specifically for firefighters, who "have to have a strong back and they have to be flexible because they are always pulling things."

Besides physical fitness, a firefighter must "be ready to go immediately" so Wilson's program includes emotional stress-reducing exercises.

"We've designed an exercise program that enhances an individual's lifestyle," Wilson said. "If they lose weight, or improve their cardiovascular health, strength and muscle tones, that's great."

After six months, the participants will again go through the testing to see what improvements have been made and what additional measures need to be accomplished to gain optimum fitness.

Initially, the department encountered a number of delays in getting the program approved. The county rejected the idea because no one had ever done it before.

However, the district's self-insurance company is eager to see a successful program and picked up the tab for the project.

Once the insurance company expressed its eagerness to take on the project, approval came without discussion.

Battalion Chief Lloyd Almand, a member of Body and Soul who had discussed the program with Wilson, decided the project would not get off the ground unless the entire department was involved.

"We feel strongly the program won't make it unless the administration sets the pace," Almand said.

Almand also decided to make the program mandatory, requiring employees to do their exercises during the first 1½ hours of their shifts.

After the testing is completed, firefighters may continue the program at Body and Soul. Two hand-held radios and firefighting gear will be on the fitness center premises in case calls come during exercise sessions.

In off-duty hours, district employees can work out at the center free of charge, since the amount the insurance company is paying includes a one-year membership.

Other area fitness centers have agreed to accept the memberships at their facilities. Some of the men who live in Hesperia have even arranged to work out there.

Wilson said he hopes the program will spur health consciousness throughout the community.

"It shows that firemen are not just sitting around eating chips," Wilson said. "They are getting strong."

Wilson has a goal of "expanding the program out to all firemen in California," claiming Body and Soul's program is the first of its kind in the Southland.

He also hopes to get police, sheriff departments and other employers who feature insurance packages to participate.

"First we must show how the program, used regularly, will reduce sick leave," Wilson said. "It also increases productivity, which saves in having to pay overtime."

Fashion show targets holiday mood

"Holiday Potpourri" is the theme of an annual fashion show and holiday boutique planned Saturday, Nov. 19 by the Ontario Upland Zonta Club at Griswold's Pavilion, 555 W. Foothill Blvd., Claremont.

Fashions from Foxi Fashions, Atwoods of Upland, Silverwoods of Montclair and Red Robe of Alta Loma will be shown. Helen and James Kent of John Robert Powers will serve as co-moderators. Helene and Juki Smith are coordinating the event.

The fund-raiser will begin at 11 a.m. with a holiday boutique followed by luncheon and fashion show at noon.

Tickets are available to public and may be obtained by calling 989-5853.

Zonta is an international service organization of executive women in business and the professions.

The club supports many projects, both local and international, including fellowships to women for graduate work in aerospace science, scholarships to local women reentering the work force and donations to local charities such as Meals on * Wheels, Visiting Nurses Association, YWCA, Santa Claus Inc., Suicide Crisis Hotline, Chaffey Cultural Museum and the Special Olympics.

Officials remind motorists that tailgating's dangerous

Officials at Rancho Cucamonga Sheriff's Substation remind residents that tailgating is hazardous.

"Try to keep at least one car length per every 10 mph distance between you and the vehicle in front of you. This margin allows for a safe, adequate stopping distance in case of an emergency," a spokesman explained.

According to law enforcement officials, vehicle burglaries are increasing. Owners should park their cars in a locked garage or in a well-lit area.

Keep all valuables out of sight, preferably in the trunk. Owners with valuable accessories should consider installing an alarm in their vans or cars.

For more information concerning crime prevention programs, contact the local law enforcement agency or the Rancho Cucamonga Sheriff's Station Crime Prevention Unit, 989-6611.

Seniors' flu clinic is slated

Ontario Community Hospital will conduct its annual senior citizens flu clinic at the hospital Thursday from 8 to 10 a.m.

People age 50 and older are urged to receive their annual flu immunization. The clinic is cosponsored by the San Bernardino County Health Department. A $2 fee will be charged.

For more information, persons may call Naida Koelliker at 984-2201, Ext. 736.

own pre-school and finished the complex," the pastor said.

According to Larson, starting a preschool of its own was cost effective for the church, although it required plenty of innovative fundraising methods to collect the necessary dollars for the facility.

"We also asked the congregation for pledges and looked for large donations. We held a carnival in 1982, something not usually done in a Methodist church."

Larson said about $35,000 worth of labor was donated by church members. "Randy Feldman is probably the singuler reason this building is here. He is chairman of the building committee. He organized a corps of people in the church and they worked over the summer every weekend, doing dry-walling, taping, painting, plumbing, pouring concrete and landscaping."

Larson credits the congregation for completing the successful building campaign. "The key is the people feel ownership of the church because they have put their labor into it: They built

He said after finishing the project, the committee decided to go ahead with a second building, a fellowship hall with classrooms. "Working hard doesn't mean volunteers are burned out; if there are rewards in it, it can be rejuventating," Larson said.

With the tremendous growth in Rancho Cucamonga, the United Methodist Church is being forced to change its model of operation and not all of the congregation is "embracing the change," according to Larson.

With the population in Rancho Cucamonga quadrupling, membership had stayed the same, at 200, until Larson joined the church in 1981. "In the summer of 1981, I chopped out a lot of old names on the mailing list, of people who hadn't attended (church functions) in years. Now a third of our people have only been here two years and that's a change from the families with long histories," he said.

"Family is a key word in this church ... we are a warm, down-home, informal, friendly congregation. If people are looking for something more sophisticated or a larger urban church, they go somewhere else. Being this way is our major strength but it also inhibits growth," Larson

Larson said being optimistic is what a Christian congregation should reflect. "If what we have been given to do is to share the 'good news' God has given to us, we should be up. We should be a people that are happy and full of joy."

The minister said he would like to see more programming for youth. The group already has meetings, conferences and retreats. And he said there may be a special Sunday evening service planned for youth in the future.

Sunday services at the United Methodist Church, 7690 Archibald, are at 9 and 10:30 a.m.; Sunday school and Bible studies are held at 9 a.m.

Ministry for singles has been established at Alta Loma church

Community Baptist Church of Alta Loma is offering a new ministry for single adults.

Designed especially to help those who have lost a mate through separation, divorce or death, Singles Alive tries to help individuals grow through fellowship, Bible study and Christiancentered activities.

The group meets at 7 on Monday evenings at Community Baptist Church, Nineteenth and Beryl streets, in addition to Sunday morning home Bible studies. Social activities are hosted each month and a licensed marriage and family counselor is available through the church.

For informatin call Bev Burns, 989-7193 or Ron Mueller, 980-8454. Community Baptist has also added a new staff member, Jim Zeilenga. Formerly a member of Campus Crusade for Christ, Zeilenga, his wife, Chris, and two sons have been members of Community Baptist for the past two years while serving Campus Crusade, headquarters in Arrowhead Springs.

Zeilenga will join the staff in shepherding and family life ministries, assisting in small group discipleship as well as community involvement. To talk with the new minister, call 987-8594.

McCall preps Panthers for season opener

Stories by Tom Vivian

Tom Tondee

There are less than two weeks before Jeff McCall debuts his Chaffey College basketball squad. McCall was selected to rebuild the Panther squad after a three-year absence.

The only banner hanging in the building is a large American flag pinned to the south wall.

As a basketball gym, Chaffey College's facility will most likely never be billed as the "West Coast's Boston Garden." But so what if there aren't any championship pennants hanging from the rafters. Four years ago, the only things hanging around were cobwebs.

This winter, however, all that may change.

For the first time since 1979, the Panthers have a basketball team. Their coach, longtime Alta Loma High head coach Jeff McCall, isn't promising fans a championship, but he said he will deliver entertaining basketball.

"I'm very hopeful that we'll have good support," McCall said following a recent practice. "A real big winner is the best thing to bring people in."

McCall, however confident he is about fan support, realizes building a winner will come neither quickly nor easily.

"It's an uphill battle from step one," he said.

The Panthers will open preseason play Nov. 22 against Claremont-McKenna College's junior varsity (at Claremont, 4 p.m.), and for their return engagement will carry a roster of 14 players.

Although a few of his players have had some post-high school basketball experience, McCall said for the most part his squad is untested on the college level.

What the Panthers lack in experience, however, they also lack in size. The tallest player on the team is 6-foot-6 Rich Ramos, who tore up a knee and is doubtful for the rest of the season.

Despite the loss of Ramos, McCall thinks the Panthers will be successful by using a swarming press defense and a patient offense. "We just don't have the kind of size where we can sit back and let people bring the ball to us," McCall said. "However, we do have outstanding quickness."

After a recent practice, McCall offered the following evaluation of his roster:

Charles Reed Casey, 5-8, 150, Fr. guard — "Originally from Houston. He's the quickest guy on two feet. Only 5-8, but can legitimately dunk."

Tony Thomas, 5-11, 175, Fr. guard — "Quick. He plays an extremely controlled game. His dad is a high school coach."

Tyrone Knott, 5-9, 150, Fr. guard.

— "A good perimeter shooter, with good defensive skills."

John Bowman, 6-1, 155, Fr. guard — "He's a good offensive player who runs with the ball very well."

Karl Smith, 6-1, 155, Fr. guard/ forward — "He's extremely quick, and a good shot. Plays a strong defense."

Willie Fort, 6-0, 160, Fr. guard/ forward — "A very good leaper and strong rebounder. He's a real scrapper under the basket."

Ronnie Fort, 6-3, 175, Fr. forward — "Good inside game. I think he is going to be a good press defender."

Randy Fort, 6-3, 175, Fr. forward

— "Has strong moves around the basket. A good medium range shooter and rebounder."

John Broecker, 6-2, 160, Fr. forward — "A tenacious defender. He always plays hard."

Ernie Gregoire, 6-1, 215, Fr. guard/forward — "He went to Cal Berkeley on a football scholarship but tore up his knee. He's pretty agile for his size, and he provides leadership.

Kenny Goss, 6-3, 180, Fr. forward — "A strong rebounder and defender. He's very disciplined."

School rallies to secure financial aid

In boxing, when a cornerman feels his pugilist has had enough, he throws in the towel. Tossing in the laundry indicates that the fighter cannot continue, and will probably return to fight another day.

However, when Chaffey College decided to forego fielding football and basketball teams in 1979, they threw in more than just towels.

Like all state-funded institutions, Chaffey experienced funding problems. In order to preserve the scope and effectiveness of other programs and services, the college board sent football and basketball packing.

Football was an understandable cut. At any level, the sport's operating costs usually are excessive, and books almost always win out over Basketball, however, seemed a different matter.

At the community college level, the biggest part of the budget would seem to be transportation costs to away games. Other than that, the school is only responsible for team uniforms.

Bob Olivera, who became Chaffey's athletic director after the sport was discontinued, couldn't understand the decision.

"Football seemed to be the biggest concern of the community at that time (1979)," Olivera said. "However, when football was eliminated, basketball just went with it."

Olivera said that a change in administration, and efforts by current vice-president of student services, Dr. Bob Harris, and himself have helped basketball bounce back.

After submitting a proposal to the board to reinstate the sport, they were told that they could bring it back if it didn't cost the board any additional money.

Operating costs for the program run around $4,000 according to Olivera, and in order to supplement available monies, he decided to run a bingo game.

Each Sunday afternoon, Chaffey uses the Ontario American Legion hall for a weekly bingo tournament. Olivera said attendance averages 50-60 patrons each week, translating into an average weekly profit of $400-600.

Coaches at the school run the game on a rotating basis, and profits are split according to the amount of time each coach has invested in the program.

Olivera said he was attracted to bingo because he felt it would provide a steady cash flow.

"I needed something that was going to be consistent," he said.

Harris added that the monies collected from

With the money problem taken care of, Olivera's next assignment was to find a coach willing to work within the program's budget constraints.

bingo are used primarily for purchasing equipment.

Jeff McCall, who had previously guided Alta Loma High School's basketball unit for 14 seasons, was eventually selected. For McCall, the new job was not only an opportunity to coach on the college level, it has also provided him an insight into how to make do with less.

On more than one level.

McCall said he appreciates the supplemental bingo funds, but that his real concern is molding a team.

McCall added that in order to win, his squad will have to rely on extensive scouting of opponents and agressive play.

His assistants this year will be Nash Rivera, a former coach at El Dorado High School, and Willie Maxfeldt, and Roger Gubichuk.

However, developing a loyal following may be more important to the program's success than winning on the court. Harris said the school's administration is urging faculty and students alike to attend games, and it has been decided that admission won't be charged to games during the early part of the season.

Upland retains hope for grid playoff spot

By Charles Bentley

After losing to Baseline League leader Claremont two weeks ago, things looked bleak for the Upland High School football team. No longer in charge of their own destiny, the Highlanders needed help to earn a CIF Eastern Conference playoff berth.

This week, Upland fans might be thinking of sending flowers and thank you cards to the Don Lugo squad, who put themselves and the Scots back in the post-season picture with a 16-13 upset over Damien last Friday.

At the same time, coach Leo Guest's club was helping itself with a 30-7 victory over league rival Alta Loma.

That' not to imply that Upland is a shoo-in for a berth. A lot still has to happen before Guest's team can concern itself with the playoffs.

But the outlook is a great deal rosier than it was a week ago.

The standings going into this week's final games show Claremont on top with a 5-0-1 mark, followed by Glendora at 4-1-1. Both have already clinched playoff spots.

Damien is presently in third with a 4-2-0 record, followed by Upland and Don Lugo deadlocked in fourth at 3-2-1. Alta Loma, Chaffey and Pomona round out the standings with 1-5-0 marks.

The true key game this week pits Claremont against Damien. Should the Spartans win, then nothing the Scots or Conquistadores do will have any bearing, other than improve on the outside chances for the sole wild card spot.

But a Wolfpack victory over Damien would then open the gate for any one of numerous finishes to the 1983 Baseline football race.

If Upland wins and Don Lugo loses, then the Highlanders would go as the league's third place representative. If the Scots lose and the Q's win, then coach John Monger's DLHS club would earn the third assured spot.

If Don Lugo and Upland both lose, then Damien would get a playoff berth as an early Christmas gift, thanks to the 8-8 tie between the Scots and Q's earlier this season.

Victories by Don Lugo and Upland combined with a Spartan loss would tie the Q's and Highlanders for third, leaving the final decision as to who would be the third place representative in the playoffs to the the Baseline's football tiebreaker system.

According to the tiebreaker system, because the two squads tied in their single meeting this year, because both beat and lost to the same teams in league play, and because both last went to the playoffs in 1981, the final deciding factor would be a leagueofficiated coin toss.

The CIF has already announced that in chosing the wild card team, it will give first priority to a team with a winning overall record. So, if the Scots do not win the coin toss, their 4-5-1 season record (after beating Pomona) would probably not be strong enough to earn the wild card slot.

More on CC play

Due to a printer's error, Gary Havro's picture in the Nov. 3 edition of The Upland News was cropped a little too tight. The photograph that appeared did not do justice to either Havro or photographer Susie Henson.

Havro was the low net winner in the first Chaffey College Golf Invtational Touranment held at Upland Hills Country Club. His score of 70.4 was a stroke better than the trio of John Merton, Tom Garnella and Len Mather, who all finished at 70.5.

Larry Mosher won low gross honors with a 74 over the new public course.

Volleyball squad at home

Having finished second in the Baseline League volleyball race, Upland High School opens CIF post-season play tonight at 7:30 against Gladstone.

"We don't know much about them," said Upland head coach Dave Mooney, "but I know we're ready to go. We're ready anxious to get started."

Upland posted a regular season record of 11-5 and a Baseline mark of 11-3. The Highlanders finished two games behind Alta Loma and in a tie with Claremont, but advanced as the circuit's second team by virtue of their two wins over the Wolfpack.

Leading the Upland charger will Karen Kuchan, Upland's middle blocker and outside hitter. Mooney has also received outstanding play from senior setters Annette Serrano and Jennifer Kitchen.

A year ago the Scots gained the playoffs but failed to make the first round. Upland lost in the wild card game to Anaheim after finishing fourth in the Baseline League.

It was different this year. The Scots were among the leaders throughout the year, but did not beat rival Alta Loma in their two meetings.

Upland was sixth in a tournament at Leuzinger earlier this year and also copped ninth place in the Colton tourney.

"We let down in our loss to Alta Loma last week," Mooney said, "but we came back against Pomona the following Friday. I think we're ready for the CIF playoffs."

ttman races at Riverside

RIVERSIDE - Bobby Allison and Darrell Waltrip will undoubtly be the main attraction Sunday, there are some Southern California racing fans that will have an eye on Joe Ruttman.

While Allison and Waltrip battle for the NASCAR Grand National driving championship, Ruttman is hoping to break his two-race pattern and perhaps steal the final race of the year, the Winston Western 500.

This could be Allison's year to wrap up the elusive championship. Twice in the past two years he held the points lead for the majority of the season before being caught and passed by Waltrip in the late stages of the campaign.

But all that's changed this year. Heading into Sunday's final, Allison holds a 64-point lead over the two-time defending champion. That means all Allison needs is a 13th place finish to secure his first national championship. no matters what Waltrip does.

David Ponder, 6-4, 175, Fr. forward -"An excellent outside shot. Basically, he's a small forward."

Rich Ramos, 6-6, 210, Fr. forward - Out with a knee injury. He is doubtful for the entire season, according to McCall.

Pierre King, 6-0, 180, Fr. guard/forward — 'He broke his foot last week playing ball at a friend's house. He had been doing very well for us, and we miss his hustle during practices."

The absence of a center is not a typographical error, there simply is not a big man on the club.

"We'll definitely have some guys playing out of position," McCall said.

McCall, who moves around the practice like a semi-controlled, one-man riot, said he plans to have his squad play tough defense and patient offense.

"Endurance, stamina, these things are going to increase," Almand said. "We will decrease not only the amount of injury, but the severity. The recovery from an injury will take less time. "And everyone is going to look better," he added.

Almand called the program "ideal" and said other departments may soon "latch onto it."

Competitions between firefighters is likely to occur, Almand said. He also expects men to watch over one another to make sure everyone

ARE YOU OPERATING UNDER A FICTITIOUS BUSINESS NAME?

If you are, are you aware that the California Business and Professions Code requires you to do the following:

1. File a Fictitious Business Name Statement with the County Clerk in the county where you have your principal place of business.

2. Have the statement published once a week for four weeks in a newspaper circulating in the area where you are doing business.

3. File a new statement on or before December 31 of the fifth year after the year in which the original statement was filed.

The purpose of this statute is to allow the public to know the true identities of those with whom it has business dealings. Filing is also in your best interest since in the event of non-compliance you will be prevented from maintaining any action on any account or contract or with regard to any transaction that you have had while operating under your Fictitious Name.

You should consult with your attorney for further details regarding compliance.

branding irons to Civil War

Rancho Cucamonga Historic Preservation Commission will sponsor the second presentation of lectures for its "Know Your Heritage" year at 7:30 p.m. Monday at Lions Park Community Center, 9161 Base Line Road, Rancho Cucamonga.

The program will feature a panel of speakers who will talk about the early Cucamonga era.

Dr. Robert Davis, professor of history at Chaffey College, will start off the evening's program with an overview of the area's past, from the coming of the white man in the late 1700s to the sale of the original rancho in 1871.

Professor Donald Pfluegoer, retired professor of history at Cal Poly, will cover the early rancho period of Cucamonga its surroundings. He will discuss land grants, the cattle industry and life on the early ranchos.

Michael Lerch, curator of archeology from the San Bernardino County Museum, will discuss cattle branding irons and their importance to the ranchos.

Bob Schmidt, local historian and author, will be the final speaker for the evening. He will share little-known facts about Rancho Cucamonga history.

The lectures are open to all West Valley residents and are free of charge.
